IYLC - Africa

FAQ

Please read through the information below before you contact us with questions.

Application

Application Deadline – We handle our applications in several rounds, with deadlines approximately every 10 days (usually the 1st, and 15th of the month). Once your application is complete, we will review it in the next round, and you will be notified regarding acceptance via email within 5 days after the deadline.

Age – The conference is intended for university students aged 18-26, although we do have some discretion on this matter to account for different countries' educational systems. For liability reasons, we cannot accept students younger than age 18 at the time of the conference. This age must be calculated from the date of birth (Western age standards), even if by the standards of your country, your age is different.

Filling out the Application – The only way to apply for the IYLC is our online application, and each student must apply individually. Please include your complete mailing address, as we will use this to send your acceptance package to you. Also, please enter your name as it appears in your passport.

The following question:

"IYLC, Insight: Dubai Alumni or IYLA: Yes / No

If no, please enter name of professor who recommended you" refers to our past conferences. If you have attended a previous IYLC, the Insight: Dubai or the International Youth Leadership Africa conference, please tick 'yes'; and if a professor has recommended you, please include his or her name here.

General

Dress –The dress code for most activities of the conference is "smart casual". During simulations and most trips, participants will not be permitted to wear t-shirts or jeans. During the conference, there will be a small number of events that will require semi-formal attire. Our opening and closing ceremonies, Model Parliament simulation and embassy visits in Cape Town will be semi-formal occasions. All conference participants are asked to pack accordingly and bring appropriate attire for these events. "Smart casual" refers to casual business wear, or what you would wear to a job interview (NO jeans, sneakers, etc.) For the three "semi-formal" events, men are asked to wear a suit and tie. If you do not have a suit, then a dress shirt will be suitable. For women, a dress, skirt or dress pants would be most appropriate for the semi-formal events.

Please note: We have tried to limit the amount of foot travel that you will be doing, but there are a few short walks (from the Embassies to site locations, for example) so please pack accordingly.

Weather (Summer): Cape Town is very warm in the summertime, so it is important to be prepared for hot temperatures. Rain is not very likely but still possible. Check the weather forecast over the internet before coming.

Weather (Winter): Winter is the rainy season in South Africa. Weather is typically still hot throughout the day during winter, however nights can be quite cold so please pack accordingly. Check the weather forecast over the internet before coming.

Money The currency of the South Africa is the South African Rand (ZAR). All major foreign currencies and traveler's cheques may be exchanged for Rands at many convenient exchange booths at the airport and in the city centre. Current exchange rates can be found on the internet.

Please note: A number of con artists work at the airport, trying to convince new travelers to exchange their money. Do NOT exchange money privately or on the street; rather, we recommend that you go to one of the many exchange stalls at the airport or in the city to exchange your money.

Visas

Here is a link providing information on countries that are exempt from needing a visa to visit South Africa:link

If your country is not on this list, it's a safe bet that you will need a visa. In this case, locate the embassy or consulate nearest you.

Please note: the requirements to apply for visas vary from country to country. It is best to contact the local Embassy or Consulate and find out exactly what you will need.

Some students will be required a special document – the Invitation Letter from the South African government (students from Pakistan, India..). If you need this document, please note that there is a very specific and time-consuming procedure for obtaining it. Please email us at info@iylc.com and we will send you more information about how to proceed.

Please note: : Although generally we recommend that students wait to pay their conference fee until after the visa is issued, in cases where students need this letter, we cannot apply for the letter on your behalf until your conference fee is paid in full. All international law and international relations are subject to change.

Funding

Conference Fees

The conference fee covers: 5 nights accommodation in Cape Town, all meals, all local transportation, a friendly airport greeting, all field trips, site visits, guest lectures, workshops, an awards ceremony and the infamous end-of-conference party. (Taxes included as well).

Students are responsible for their own transportation to and from South Africa (the conference fee does not cover airfare).

Sponsorships – Since we are an accredited academic organisation, many of our students ask their university or another academic organisation on campus to fund their tuition to the conference.

An excellent way to have your entire conference paid for is to find a local business or charitable organisation in your hometown to sponsor you. The best approach to take is to first contact them over the phone. Try to arrange a meeting with them. Explain how you would like their assistance in helping you attend the next International Youth Leadership Conference in Cape Town, South Africa. You would like for them to help cover your small student fee required to attend this year's conference. In return, you will write letters to the local media informing them of your sponsorship, and you will represent their business at the conference by wearing for example a nametag with their logo on it. Their name and logo will also appear on our promotional materials and on our website.

Show initiative: it's an opportunity for you to attend the next conference free! Remember, these businesses WANT to sponsor you. It's in their best interest to show support for the next generation of leaders in their community.

When you have found a sponsor, simply email the details to info@iylc.com and we will take care of placing their name and logo on our conference materials as promised. Good luck!

Scholarships – We have a limited number of scholarships available for students for participants from developing countries and countries in transition. Due to our financial constraints, we are unable to provide any further assistance towards either travel expenses or registration fees.

In the past, many of our students have secured funding themselves, either through private sponsorship or through Organisations like the Academy for Educational Development (www.aed.org) in conjunction with the USAID (www.usaid.gov) Please check with their websites to see whether there is a mission in your country that could help fund your participation in our conference. OSCE and UNDP have also sponsored some students.

Funding by Universities – A number of the IYLC participants are funded by their universities. Universities that support their students' attendance at the IYLC conferences can become part of the International Youth Leadership Network. To acknowledge their support we place their logo on the IYLN website and on all conference related marketing materials. Besides other benefits they receive a 10% discount for their university delegations (minimum 2 students).

Venue

Internet Access –The hotel lobby has wireless internet, as well as all the classrooms where you will be working with your groups. There is also a public computer with internet located on the ground floor of the primary building, next to the reception. Many restaurants in Cape Town also offer wireless internet on request if you order something.

Meals – There will be vegetarian options available at each meal; there will also be arrangements made for Jewish and Muslim participants (ie. A non-pork dish). If you have any specific dietary requirements, please let us know as soon as possible and we will do everything we can to accommodate you.

Pay phones are extremely rare in Cape Town, and long-distance calls are quite expensive. There is a pay phone in the hotel lobby and it would be best to purchase a card for international phone calls at the local newsagents. Hotel phones are free for local calls. If you will be bringing a mobile phone, it may be possible to purchase a SIM card and a recharge coupon so that you can send SMS (TEXT) messages or make calls. The following link provides information on mobile companies operating in South Africa link

Extra time in Cape Town

IMPORTANT: Although the conference takes place in Cape Town, there is more emphasis placed on utilizing and developing the unique international community of the conference and not so much importance is placed on sightseeing in Cape Town. This means that you may not have as much time to explore the city as you might like. We strongly encourage you to make arrangements to stay in Cape Town before or after the conference in order to see the city and experience South African culture.

IYLC - Africa

Join Our Team

The IYLC is looking for capable, creative and energetic volunteers to take part in our three-month Leadership Associate Programme (LAP)

We commit to providing:

- Opportunities to develop your professional skills
- Autonomy and creativity around certain tasks
- Induction and training
- Remote supervision, support and flexibility
- Equal opportunities
- Reasonable expenses.

At the end of the LAP, volunteers will be presented with a certificate of completion and will be automatically eligible for consideration for the roles of Facilitator or Logistics Coordinator, dependent on the work stream they have committed to.

The LAP is open but not limited to IYLC Alumni. (IYLC Alumni are preferred candidates because they understand and have demonstrated that they buy-in to our core values.)

There are two positions available: Content Contributor and Regional Coordinator. Content Contributors will be considered for Facilitator roles and Regional Coordinators will be considered for Logistics Coordinator roles.

Content Contributors

Your role as a LAP volunteer is to create content that generates enthusiasm for youth leadership, motivates the best and the brightest to attend a conference and strengthens relationships with partners and donors around the world.

During the course of the LAP, you will be asked to:

- Create content that aligns with IYLC's social media mission statement;
- Create personal marketing strategies to engage delegates;
- Generate new leads;
- Conduct user research to find out what motivates students and what their obstacles are;
- Maintain an in-depth knowledge of IYLC's processes, procedures and products to generate the biggest possible engagement;
- Meeting with and encouraging potential delegates to participate;
- Complete accurate administrative tasks for the role.
- Perform your volunteering role to the best of your ability.

Regional coordinators

Your role as a LAP volunteer is to develop relationships with local stakeholders and boost the profile of IYLC in your region.

You must be in or close to any of the four countries where our conferences take place. For e.g. you may live in Singapore or Australia and be the regional contact for the Malaysian Conference.;

During the course of the LAP, you will be asked to:

- Contact new potential partners in the city that the conference is taking place;
- Maintain existing relationships with stakeholders and universities;
- Generate new links with Universities;
- work with the Content Contributor to generate relevant content and disseminate this content appropriately in your region;

We are considering applications on a rolling basis.

Testimonials

The most rewarding part of the IYLC is meeting people from all over the world and being able to develop my language skills. What makes the IYLC experience different to other conference is the cultural diversity we are exposed to.

-Zahne Gane, Australia

The IYLC is not only about serious simulations, but also, very fun activities and amazing facilitators! This conference has helped me learn about team work and respect for everyone.

-Francesca Mangahas, Philippines

The IYLC is focused on leadership with interesting simulations and a small cohesive group hence making the experience different to other conferences and educational programs.

-Viking, Thailands

Two months after attending the conference, I can confidently say that I have grown more tremendously because of the impact IYLC has had. The simulations deepened my understanding and knowledge of the Security Council United Academically, I learned about the current issues going around the world. Personally, I learned how to compromise and hence understand where the other person is coming from. This conference has helped me become a confident person.

-Panca Ratna Ariani, Indonesia

What makes IYLC different from other conferences is that fact that we do not just discuss the current issues, rather we are exposed to the cultural and religious context of the host city and that has made all the difference!

-Qhama Nande Sinandile, South Africa

This conference gives me a new perspective on issues facing my country and allows me to come at it from a different front. Also, I have cemented what I already knew about other cultures and learned much more!

-Tom Moore, Australia

The IYLC taught me about Team Building Appreciation and Respect for everyone!

-Aji Cloudstrife, Indonesia

What makes IYLC different from other conferences is the professional team it is!

-Lutik Rina Widyastulik, Indonesia

IYLC has taught me how to become professional. On a personal level, it inculcated the quality of patience and team spirit in me. It should also be held in countries like India, Pakistan and Australia!

-Ramya Ranjan Behera, India

The IYLC is a unique experience in which the most rewarding experience is The cultural night. Visits to places and APEC Simulation.

-Hadia Farood, Pakistan

The IYLC offers unique simulation sessions and allows us to be exposed to new cultures!

-Long Nguyen, Vietnam

The IYLC has truly been a pivotal experience in my personal, academic and professional growth. Academically, the IYLC helped me understand and apply academic learning in a global context. Professionally, the Security Council, United Nations and International Criminal Court. This has enriched my academic experience and created a bigger fascination for the international arena, framing the direction for my eventual master's thesis. The embassy visits and interactions with company executives and country diplomats were of particular impact on the choice for my future professional career. This is because I was able they provided fresh, true insights from people actually working in the field as well as contacts.

-Tikwiza Silubonde,
Zambia

By meeting so many people who shared the same passions as I did, I was able to appreciate the world so much more and really become motivated about what I wanted to do with my life and the changes I want to see happening in the world.

-Sandeep Kaur Gill,
Canada

In my university (« Sciences Po »), we study a wide range of subjects, from law to history, economics or sociology. With the IYLC I finally found a way to convert theoretical classes into practical cases. It also

Through the IYLC I gained a new cross-cultural understanding through the intense workshops, forums, and simulations with student leaders from around the world. This incredible experience has encouraged me to challenge myself to combat issues facing diversity and inclusion within local, national and international communities. From this opportunity, I hope to continue to build partnerships between US organizations and institutions with the broader international community.

-Demetrius Jones, USA

After attending the IYLC I am no longer afraid to express myself, I really stepped out of my comfort zone and I am comfortable with it. It has been a wonderful experience which made me a strong woman, and it has also been beneficial for my career!!

-Shamila, Surinam

It was such a pleasure for me to be part of a group that represented more than 30 countries, each one of us, with the potential to be successful leaders in our own countries. During the week

IYLC has given me the boost to venture on my own. Personally, it has been my mission to do my best to imbibe the confidence, knowledge and skills that I have gained via the IYLC and through my work, projects and even regular conversations, I consciously make it a point to do my best to inspire people.

-Glen Ivan Suchitha, India

My IYLC experience inspired me to step out of my comfort zone, to share my ideas, to listen to the ideas of others and to take my place in the world of global politics. I have become a more confident person, a good team player and have a wider and more open world view now. It also offered me a chance to breakdown stereotypes and misconceptions that people had about my country Zimbabwe and I learned a lot about other participants countries and cleared some misconceptions I had too.

-Sifiso Maposa, Zimbabwe

Meeting people from different backgrounds and culture have been mind-blowing. The 24th IYLC has allowed me to network and engage with people from around the helped me better understand myself and my motivations in life, better understand others without losing ground with what I am and lastly, to discover how, as a leader, I could encourage others.

-Daniella Segal, Israel

conference, I developed more confidence and more courage to go further and aim higher.

-Bahaa AlDahoudi,
Palestine

world, while understanding key European institutions and political structures. Throughout the conference, I've been able to engage in international relations, law, economics and put political and economic theory into action.

IYLC - Africa

Skill Set

IYLC places a strong emphasis on advancing generic skills in 6 main categories:

- Adaptability
- Communication
- Personal Development
- Group Effectiveness
- Influencing
- Personal Qualities

The effects of the IYLC on the advancement of these skills is illustrated below. The charts are based on the findings of an anonymous self-assessment survey conducted amongst 18th IYLC participants in July 2009.

The IYLC works on three key levels:

1) Interpersonal Dynamics of the group developing a group identity, learning to work with a diverse and international group of people.

2) Individual Development – challenging ideas, previous conceptions, engaging with the realities of others, developing skills of leadership, communication, expression of arguments, cultural intelligence.

3) Intellectual Development – a pre-requisite of being able to work in the simulations is being able to hold an unwavering understanding of the workings and aims of these organisations. The simulation aims to add to that knowledge and test it in various situations whilst developing key transferable leadership skills.

IYLC/International Youth Leadership Conference

About IYLC

Since 2001 we here at the IYLC aim to sharpen the skills of the best and brightest to give them the chance to shine on our international stage. Have your business, university or organization represented amongst the world's future leaders. Through workshops, debates, cultural events and various other activities your leadership capabilities will be put to the test here at IYLC!

Our goal is to push participants who show potential to better themselves in various fields, particularly in politics and business. In addition to this we wish to assert our participants in their role in the world, to show them how interconnected they can become. Each community faces their own issues but they do not have to face these alone. IYLC seeks to interconnect youth from around the world to gain a global perspective in order to overcome these challenges.

IYLC would not exist without the involvement of local communities around the world, we aim to assist these communities in any way we can. Whether that be through giving them a wider representation or assisting various community development members. When you join IYLC you join a truly global network.
